What is PyConFR?

PyConFR is a free 4-day conference organized by the AFPy (Association Francophone Python) and entirely managed by volunteers.

It is also the largest francophone Python conference, with its first edition held in 2007.

The first two days are dedicated to sprints (or collaborative development). Developers from various open source projects come together to code. Everyone, regardless of their level, is welcome to contribute.

The last two days are dedicated to talks and workshops. Various topics related to Python and its community are covered (usage, best practices, feedback, sharing ideas...).

Why become a sponsor?

PyConFR is a unique event in the Francophone community that welcomes visitors from all over the world.

This conference attracts more and more people with each edition. It is a special opportunity to discuss and exchange with a large audience.

Sponsoring PyConFR allows your company to support one of the few free tech conferences, to participate in the sharing of knowledge and to gain great visibility.

Strasbourg

After Bordeaux, Lille, Toulouse, Rennes, Lyon, Pau... this 15th edition of PyConFR is hosted by the UFR Mathematics and Computer Science of Strasbourg, from October 31 to November 3.

Strasbourg is a major city in the European landscape, at the crossroads of France, Germany, Luxembourg, Belgium, and Switzerland, easily accessible.

A city that knows how to welcome a large and diverse audience. In short, an ideal city for a conference!
